NEW WORLDS TO CONQUER

by Bonnie King

Let us pause for a moment of meditation and thoughtful silence. Pausing thus, let us throw off the burden of care and turmoil into which our great world has been cast. Let us ask ourselves a few vital questions for analyzation by every loyal, upright American: Who will be the victor? What attributes of power will contribute in making any one nation the victor? Have we those attributes? Are we, as American citizens, broad minded enough to cope with the problems that the world of tomorrow will present?

A thought comes to mind as we review present world conditions—competition for world dominion by the principles of the totalitarians against the principles that we uphold. The domination of force and brutality against world peace and brotherly love; the Axis pitted against the Allies. Who will be the victor? Can we say? According to the principles of Jesus Christ, right prevails over might; but might built through conformance with His word, will choose the victor to establish world peace.

Our America is the land of the free as established by the Constitution of the United States. It is our life and only by the qualities and concepts of freedom that we uphold, may true Americans live in this courageous land. Then, living as Americans, can we feel that suppression of individualism, suppression of freedom of living, suppression of every cultural advantage of life is right? Can we allow unprinicipled nations to gain a world domination?

No. Indeed we will not. Our forefathers fought for that freedom which we enjoy today, and we are going to preserve it.

The call to arms has been sounded. We have today issuing forth from every hamlet, village, and city, millions of young, sturdy Americans in whom we may be proud to put our faith and dependence, many having voluntarily chosen to dedicate their lives to the service of their country.

We have not only the mobilization of armed forces, but also the mobilization of industry, and civilians with their faith, courage, and will power. Where there is a will there inevitably is a way; we have that way.

Assuming now that we be the victors, consider the outcome of such an accomplishment. How can world peace be consummated? By force? Certainly not. By love and foresight and integrity? Yes. We would not, as a victor nation, assume a hard, demanding method of reconstruction, but a patient, tolerant, understanding, but definitely a firm course to be followed in which those defeated nations would come to the realization of the greatness of democracy in its true form, and of the glorious, awe-inspiring opportunities it presents in every man, woman, and child.

I would not say that our democracy is perfect. Our goal is yet to be reached. We can, however, in rebuilding the ideals and faith of other nations, strengthen ours to such an extent as to form a world democracy that could be compared favorably to More's "Utopia." These are merely ideals; but our striving must be for our highest goal.

There are many factors to which we may attribute the success of an ideal democracy. The complete fellowship of man could be attained by intensive and extensive religious training, causing every heart to turn in faith to the living Christ for guidance, supplication, and practical application of the principles that were taught by Him. Thus would we gain spiritual conceptions that would lead to world brotherhood, where each one would feel his responsibility as his brother's keeper, and life would be more beautiful by our having known Him.

Another important factor will be our intellectual institutions. They will create the vision of that world of tomorrow. They will have the power to build the spiritual, mental, physical, and moral concepts of the world and its future leaders. The power to raise the world's standard of living to unknown heights will be theirs.

Until our ideals for world democracy have so gripped the hearts of all men that they will feel the direct urge to adhere to its principles, the forces of right must have the vigilant and adequate protection of might to uphold and defend and safeguard its perpetuation.

We, as crusaders for life itself, know that it is our duty to work diligently for the might behind the right and to sow the seed of love and fellowship that our posterity may live in a world of peace and harmony.

To Our Fighting Men
The World Over

by Wayne Nolin

As the time draws near when another group of classmates and long-loved friends shall depart into the upheaval of today's troubled world, we pause for a moment and deliberate on our intimate course of action.

Speaking for such an assemblage of youth bubbling over with future ambitions, I might say that we have braved many hardships, but still when faced with the realities of life we ponder. What service may we perform that will enable us to aid in that immense defense assignment?

True, we are almost upon the last step of the ladder of education and leave with you our account book called the "Mirror" from which you may read an accurate and concise resumé of school life as it is lived in Montpelier.

We humbly dedicate this 1942 Yearbook to the Alumni of our number who have been called to sacrifice life, liberty, and happiness that we may be saved from the heel of oppression to live in a World of Tomorrow that flies the flag of Everlasting Peace.

WALLS DO NOT

by Louis Courtney

In the minds of architects are visualized those things that are to be brought out in future years. Before us is a blueprint which symbolizes the work of creative minds. Out of seemingly nothing rises a structure through which younger minds are to be developed for their part in God's creation. This structure is the Montpelier High School, through whose doors have entered students pursuing education and have left equipped with knowledge to take their place on the road of life. Among those leaving, are leaders, ones who will stand out to lead their generation through the perils of life.

Each student may select the subject he is most interested in. Within the last few years the number of courses have been increased. In 1940 a new and modern gymnasium was constructed. This and other improvements add greatly to the attractiveness and welfare of the school.

The old gymnasium was converted into a shop which has been equipped with modern and efficient machinery. In 1941, under the N. Y. A., students were given jobs in redecorating the interior of the school.

We cannot prophesy what the future holds in store for us but we are sure there will be many more generations of students to leave our school and make their way in the world.

Every gain made by Military Might, must necessarily be held by an army. Every gain made by civilization, must be held by our educators. Behind us there is no beginning that man may concieve; and before us, in the dark of the future lies a greater mystery that only time will reveal. Our unparalleled progress to the present time has been made possible by the gains of those before us. We must make new strides. We must protect and hold them that future generations may build upon the foundations we have built.—DICK PLOUCK.

STABILITY IN A CHANGING WORLD

by Madonna Herman

Public education and public assembly are the life stream of democracy, thus no curtailment can be justified in these fields.

Henry Ford says, "If we can afford to spend billions on war, we can afford to spend millions on education."

Public education, public health and child nutrition must be considered a part of the war budget and outlay for defense.

Too, we must intensify educational, religious, and entertainment activities that morale may be kept at high pitch and production energy increased.

Our schools must not only fight to win, but must prepare for a peace that is to follow, built upon international unity and brotherly love, bounded by a spiritual power that is everlasting.

SCHOOL ANNOUNCER

Many new extracurricular activities have been added to the large number which Montpelier High School had last year. One of those which were added was school announcer.

Being a new activity much experimenting was carried on in this field. For the first half year, there was but one person to do all the work connected with the announcing, but during the second half each Senior was given a chance to announce, while the real announcer served as supervisor of the project.

STUDENT OFFICE AID

Efficient workers! That is the call of tomorrow. It is up to the present generation to answer this challenge. They must have a foresight of how to meet this demand by preparing for the right thing.

All classes, Freshman, Sophomore, Junior, and Senior may participate. Each student has a chance to gain knowledge of all tasks. A few are cutting ditto copies, using the adding machine, running the mimeograph machine, cutting stencils, checking attendance, answering the telephone, sorting mail, extra tying or anything they see to be completed. Such a chance of preparedness comes from office aid.

HALL RECEPTION

You need not feel disturbed or ill at ease, when you visit our High School, for you will be greeted in the hall by one of our receptionists, who are on duty each period of the day to direct visitors to the section of the building they desire to visit.

They will direct you to any student or member of the faculty you wish.

LIBRARY CLUB

The Library Club consists of ten girls who keep the library in top condition. The books are well handled and cared for. These students are helpful in finding material and checking books in and out of the library. They have full charge and authority while on duty during the special periods to which they are assigned.

THE BULLETIN BOARD

It is not a new theory that bulletin boards attract attention, for scarcely a period of the day passes, but a dozen or more students will stop to consult the advertisements, or peruse a dramatic program, or see if their name is scheduled for an athletic event.

CANNED HEAT

Stokers are indeed a happy invention and a much needed device in large buildings, where uniform heating is desired.

OUR SUPERINTENDENT SPEAKS

H. M. SHAEFFER, A.B., Montpelier, Ohio.
Heidelberg, Ohio State University

KEEP YOUR BALANCE

Supt., H. M. Shaeffer

Education is economically a productive enterprise that must be maintained as one of the most essential defense measures. What we put into our schools now, we put into our homes, our societies and our nation.

If we permit a blackout in this Institution of Society, we will be untrue to our brothers in khaki who have left the "Torch of Learning" in our hands that it may light their homeward journey.

Passive resistance will not stop those who are engaged in attempting to destroy all mental and spiritual integrity.

Children are our only real assets. If we can afford war, we can also afford education which will give our children their birthright of health and education on a higher plane of living, with culture and security as prerequisities.

Perhaps some of the rebuffs that have already been handed our khaki clad, were direct resultants of our inability to furnish skilled and professional men to produce planes, tanks and ships. Yes, the price we pay in blood, because we listened too long to the taxpayers wail, "that schools cost too much" may be a boomerang for educations' cause.

In these troubled times of change and excitement, do not make money your God for the payroll of the moment, maybe only an idle dream tomorrow; and you will find yourself incapable of filling the place designed for you by the Gods.

Invest your funds in all the intellectual bonds you are able to obtain and forge a background, that will furnish dividends for you to live in a world that will be different than any world we know today.

You are coming to a parting of the ways. In the one direction, beckons the armed services of your country. In the other lies opportunity to do constructive work in your chosen profession on the home front.

Serve well your country and your God, so the American way of life may prevail.

FROM THE OFFICE OF THE PRINCIPAL

PHILOSOPHY AND OBJECTIVES OF EDUCATION — FOR TOMORROW'S WORLD

The school must offer a program of education that is dynamic, flexible, and mutable. That the progress of civilization may be assumed, the school must transmit the experiences of past generations to the younger generations. Current conditions demand that the school be the most efficient agent for the accomplishment of this transmission.

To change the social order or to set up a model society is not the purpose of the school, but to be sensitive to social changes and trends in order to help the pupils of our schools solve successfully the problems of living that confront them is the inescapable task of our public schools. The school must guide boys and girls in recognizing desirable social traits and provide a background of experience which will enable them to evaluate any new social ideals caused by changes in industry and in economic conditions.

Knowledge and skills are valuable in education to the extent that they facilitate human activity and make the adjustment of the pupil to his environment more flexible and effective. Certain knowledge and skills are demanded in a democratic society and must be acquired by pupils in the most effective and economical way.

Since the beginning of mankind, man has answered these questions. The answers that men have found, the organized knowledge they have acquired by observation and reasoning, make up what we call the sciences. Today, our nation needs scientifically trained men and women more than ever before. In whatever type of work that might be pursued, whether it be agriculture, the oldest of our industries, to our most recent inventions, science has played its part. The sciences have made enormous developments in the fields of medicine, food, clothing, and shelter; in the petroleum industry; in the rubber industry; and in radio. And now we are concentrating our efforts on the manufacture of explosives and implements of war for our armed forces. As in the past, science will continue its relentless search for new and better things—things that will make this world a better place in which to live.

PRIDE AND PREJUDICE COMPETE

by Clara Long

Montpelier High School provides a variety of courses from which you may make your choice. One of the most popular is the College Preparatory course which prepares you for your future years in college. The General course prepares you for different occupations you might want to follow.

Many who are interested in office work take the Commercial course. This paves the way to better stenography for the future.

Girls who want to become better homemakers take the Home Economics course, and farm boys, the Agriculture course which is now needed more than ever before. However, it is limited to rural boys with a few exceptions.

Among the many subjects required are English, American History, and American Government. You may have your choice with most other subjects.

Within the last year two new subjects have been added to help boys become better acquainted with tools. The subjects offered are Mechanical Drawing and Industrial Arts, which are important today and much needed in defense work.

Besides the four curricular subjects there are many organizations. The most important one is Music which will help make everyone happy and carefree.

Physical Education is taken by all in the school who are physically fit.

Each student must have a certain number of majors and minors for graduation. Sufficient credits must also be obtained before passing to a higher grade. For example the Sophomore rank is three, Junior is seven, Senior is eleven, and graduation is sixteen.

Thus, choose wisely, for the course you take marks your future career.

Traditional in the navy is the intense study of strategy and the training of thousands of young men to bring knowledge, ability, and skills into play.

We, too, study and plan our strategy. We have been given a vital role to play in building understandings and skills, in promoting national unity, in developing morale and ultimately in preparing the American people to win peace.

We take pride in our performance and achievements, and have acquired respect and love for the Flag of our country as the emblem of Liberty and Unity. Montpelier High School is proud of her boys in the Navy Service.—Arlene Whitney.

ANOTHER FLEET FOR DEFENSE

by Wayne Nolin

Anyone wide awake in our country of today can hear but one thing. We find ringing in our ears the cry to conserve, save, buy defense bonds, and to educate ourselves for special work to aid in our defense efforts. Because these cries echo back from time to time we know that they apply to every true American. But what can youth alone do to benefit the worthy cause? As we attend our fine schools and go about our daily tasks we might think that we are idle, while others fight our battles. Added to all this we sit each day, in our leisurely chair, and hear how a certain merchant vessel was sunk, how raiders damaged a defenseless city, or how our enemies gained new positions.

Glancing around us we discover that in our fine schools there is a group who are ready to launch forth into this era of chaos, fury, hatred, and uncertainty. In this division each one is talented in his own field. We have engaged in numerous activities not only in this one year, but during our entire period of preparation. Each of these have brought out some new ability, or inspiration to do something. With all these small and minor things we now have built a group with ability to lead, star athletes, musicians, future scientists, and a mass of others, each a leader in a special activity or field. Together we served our guests at football games, served two large groups at banquets during the year, and successfully held a Senior luncheon. Besides many other activities we were in charge of a part of the Community Institute, and held a much commented program on Armistice Day. Our greatest activity of the year was the Yearbook. Also we had the all important Senior play and Senior chapel.

As armies are growing and navies being built, this is our own type of fleet. We are in demand equally with any regiment or brigade. We are a battalion all our own. The destiny and future of our so loved country probably lies on this group who are now launching forth into all channels, walks, and ways of human efforts. These potential and liberty loving, upstart leaders will be placed in the world after the chaos is over. Those students of science will devise aids to our peaceful living, instead of the nucleus of a machine which causes man to bend his every energy and resource in the subversion of mankind. There will be a place for those specialists, who are masters in a peace loving activity.

Speaking for a group of fun loving, free and true Americans, I might say that our morale is one hundred per cent and we as combatants in the strife are filled with hope and assurance. Our final aim will be to keep up the progressive campaign we have carried thus far, with a confidence and force that shall guide us on to victory in the end.

Synopsis

Time: 1930 and 1931.

Place: Living room of Rand home in a mid-western city.

Act 1. Scene 1: About 11:30 on a cold, February night. Scene 2: Early afternoon. About September 10.

Shirt Sleeves is a true domestic comedy. Its uncannily accurate delineation of middle-class American family life, balancing precariously between the dollar aristocracy above and the hand-to-mouth strugglers below, is far more true to life than any of the legion of apartment-house comedies our stage has known.

Enclosed within this accurately reported matrix, we find the theme of the play, the renaissance of a retrogressive family unit, whose integration has been weakened by times too comfortably far from the vigorous shirt-sleeve days of Old Jonathan Rand, but whose fiber is still tough and resilient for reweaving into a new integration.

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION

by Wilma Ansley

Among the fondest memories of our school life are the acts of kindness, the words of encouragement, and gifts' to our school.

We are deeply grateful to Mr. Roy Youngs for "Popular Science Magazines" which added many happy moments for those interested in scientific research.

To Mr. E. Strayer for his "National Geographic Magazines," which are most interesting in time of war, we are indeed grateful.

To Mr. Hershel Dean and Mr. Bert Sharlow; we appreciate the interest you have shown in our athletic program and express our thanks for the lovely trophies presented.

The Parent-Faculty Association has been loyal to the utmost degree. To them, for their tokens of thoughtfulness and ever-faithful interest, we express our final thanks.

"TILL WE MEET AGAIN"

by Betty Summers and Donna Miller

We pause for a moment to remember one of our classmates who has gone to his Heavenly home to rest in peace and quiet.

Richard, better known to his friends as Dick, was always laughing and doing things for other people, until the Master had need of him in the celestial city.

The Seniors pay tribute to the memory of our friend who has departed, Richard Emerick.

In Memoriam

There's a face in our class that is missing
A seat that's made vacant by death,
And 'twas God that made these quick changes
But his memory remains with us yet.

Should claim of death make us grieve
And cause our spirits to fall?

No, faith and hope we should receive
For roses bloom beyond the wall.

We've missed you, Richard, in our play,
Your face; your smile; your empty seat.

But we'll hope to meet you some bright day
And then our class will be complete.

FATE TAKES A HAND

by Arlene Whitney and Nola Robison

This is the class of '42
Of a school so tried and true
We now to you present
Our members, with your consent.
First is ANSLEY who is our nurse
To care for BAUER when he crashes first.
BRATTON, the girls delight
Is on that team; fight! fight! fight!
MacArthur now is the prominent man
But BEEK will be the idol of the land.
BONNIE BROWN makes a pretty dress
So does DORIS, we must confess.
CHILDERS, a secretary she will be
And BYERS, a sailor on the sea.
Now CONNOLLY is a great romancer
While BRIM is a ballet dancer.
CHAPPELL is the soldier on the land
HESTER WELCH is leader of a college band.
COURTNEY is a pilot in the air
And CHAPMAN is dresser of the hair.
The scene now shifts to the western coast
To COX, a star of whom we boast.
On this same coast we find our scientist
DONALD MILLER is one of the finest.
WARREN is the poet of the town
He thinks it up; then writes it down.

FERGUSON and GUILINGER have gone a long way
One is a singer and one just plays.
Now, KANNEL, he is a politician bold
That knows every story that can be told.
The home demonstrator is DORIS CUMMINS.
TEATS, a judge, will hand out summons.
DARGITZ is the best farm hand
And DIESLER is "First Lady of the Land."
DETWILER now is a successful housewife
And ENSIGN cuts meat with her long sharp knife.
GUNN, true to the flag, is now a soldier
HINER, the fair, looks not a day older.
For good things to eat, we go to see HERMAN
Then go to hear HOFFMAN give a church sermon.
HUBER owns a factory; he's in the millions
But KRILL, a go-getter, is now in the billions.
Cosmetics is what Miss NEWMAN sells
To our lovely model, Miss KRUSELL.
We all love to see a KOSIER smile
And hear BONNIE BELL by turning a dial.
As the birds fly south, so must we go too
To look up some more of '42.
Here we are on the Miami Beach
Where LAMBERSON, a swimmer, can't be beat.
Now over there is Professor PIKE
He teaches French and is undoubtedly right.
And there is PLOUCK, a famous physician
The rich ladies ailments are his decision.
Now on the beach, there are always cuties
SPRANKELL and MILLER are bathing beauties.
We can't miss the night club which is well known
And is owned by no other than the WAYNE NOLIN.
RICHMOND'S famous band is drawing a crowd
He's a drummer and he sure is proud.
OSBORN'S a dancer and is having her fling
She's also a jitterbug and, say, can she swing.
Surrounded in a corner and can't be seen
Is THEODORE VINAL, a handsome marine.
SARA-A-LEE HARRELL is checking the hats
And keeping them straight is driving her bats.
We're now at the airport, waiting to depart
JOHNSON is checking the gas so we can get an early start.
The airline hostess has waited and waited,
It's MARJORIE YOUNGS and her smile has not faded.
TED ROBERTS, the comedian, has won his fame,
He stubbed his toe and nearly missed the plane.
The skyscrapers are beautiful from where we are,
With TRESSLER, the engineer, they are way past par.
The vision of the White House can just be seen,
Its white dome glistens and it's fit for a queen.
As we glide into the airport, who do we see
But our guide who is no other than RICHARD GEE.
We passed a school and in the doorway stood
GREG, a Home Ec. teacher, who makes food good.
Oh! there's CLARA LONG, a writer of fiction
She uses good English and perfect diction.
The street car conductor is MARION Lee,
He's the one who charged us a very high fee.
LOCY and McKARNS are theater owners
They have good pictures but some are joners.
EVELYN SHANKSTER is a welfare worker,
She works very hard and is not a shirker.
On our trip to New York with a brave engineer
We had MICHAELS whom we never need fear.
As we came into Grand Central Station
DONNA MILLER was handing out information.
We wandered and wandered up Park Avenue
Until we were lost and didn't know what to do.
SEARS, a burly cop was he Directed us to a place for tea.
SUMMERS brought us tea on a tray
That was beautifully arranged in a unique way.
McDANIELS came in to dine with us
She's a columnist and had just missed her bus.
Across the street is a great stage show
PROSSER'S the producer that makes it go.
To radio city we now go
To find someone else that we might know.
FRANCES PUSHEE is a secretary there
She can tell her boss things we wouldn't dare.
Now, DOROTHY TINGLE is a telephone operator
She didn't see us till sometime later.
SHANKSTER is a radio announcer
And sometimes works as a night club bouncer.
STICKNEY left the farm and to the city he came
And as a radio commentator, he built his fame.
TATE and WILLIAMS united as one
To sing Hello! and have some fun.
Now that WHITNEY and ROBISON have composed these facts
They will lay down their pens, and just relax.

THE WHITE CLIFFS OF DOVER ARE IN SIGHT

by Betty Critchfield

A seemingly, short time ago we came to high school, curious, anxious, and wondering what next we could learn, for to us knowledge seemed complete.

Many young people our age do not have opportunities we have and are under strict rule of dictatorship. If we would stop to think of this we might appreciate our chance for an education.

We are now on the verge of a great undertaking—the Senior year. After that we have the over-shadowing task of fighting opposing forces of the world. We must fight fairly, squarely, and always believe we'll get as much out of life as we put into it. When we hear of an unusual success, we blame it on luck. Luck or genius, the person who has it, certainly has had, at sometime or another, to fight, just as we are doing and will probably keep on doing for years to come. In a short while these pages of our life will be closed.

Row 6—Jane Grimes, Marjorie Haase, Maurice Harmon, Carlton Hart, Arlene Hasford.

It is our hope that they may be revived in memory by future deeds of our present day classmates.

The officers elected to guide our class through the progressive year were the following: LeRoy Lamberson, President; Mary Welsh, Secretary; and John Mansfield, Treasurer.

In December came the Junior Play, "The Case of the Squealing Cat," a three-act mystery play of surprises, thrills and excitement which was very well presented by the following: LeRoy Patterson, Carlton Hart, Wayne Dietrich, Eleanor Krisher, Arlene Hasford, Betty Diemer, Dick Pressler, Betty Critchfield, Iris June French, Catherine Bible, Val Connolly, James Connell, and Ralph Cox. There was also a black cat that took a prominent and mysterious part in the weird doings in the household.

The Junior-Senior Banquet was held the last of April with a surrounding atmosphere of patriotism and our theme songs were, "The White Cliffs of Dover," and "Remember Pearl Harbor."

We have one more year of study and then we will launch ourselves on life's thoroughfare.

WE'RE ON THE FIRING LINE

LOOKING AHEAD

Ten years we have been training ourselves for the life we are soon to begin; a life of self-support as exponents of liberty and unity. We wish to be a part in the maintenance of America's democracy—for this we are striving. When we, the class of '44 entered Montpelier High School, each of us individually chose the course which we thought ourselves best suited to, that which would best prepare us for the field we plan to enter. Mr. D. V. Swanson, Sophomore Class adviser, has been of invaluable aid, in the solving of our class problems. We chose four very competent students as our leaders: President, Charles Cook; Vice President, Robert Wilson; Secretary, Marjorie Kiley; Treasurer, Betty Smith. Our school year has been a democratic one—in which we have been given our choice of extra-curricular activities. Among these are Girl Reserve, Hi-Y, Girls Recreation Association, M-Club, and the Band and Glee Club which are playing a great part in the molding of the lives of countless future musicians. The boys have found untold enjoyment in the participation of football, basketball, and track.

We shall be ready when our era of responsibility arrives. We shall have clear minds to solve our own problems, and we shall strongly stand among the millions in the crusade for living, we shall be prepared whether our world is at war or restful in a greatly-desired peace.

HERE, BILL TAKE THE BALL

by Patricia Bennett

We of the Freshman Class of 1942 are bringing the year to a successful close with great joy, joy because we are more near our goal. This good old world surely isn't what it used to be, and it seems that children must learn to walk earlier in life than they used to.

Our class has been represented in many school activities. Last fall we had an election with the help of our class adviser, Mr. Radenbaugh. The following officers were elected: Pres., Barbara Nolan; Vice-Pres., Dorothy Robinson; Sec., Elmer Dietrich; Treas., Anna Wallace. Activities enjoyed are Hi-Y, F.H.A., Girl Reserve, Girls Recreation Association, Latin League and participation in the Montpelier Band and Orchestra. We also made a fine showing in football, basketball and track.

As the theme for our Annual is "Crusade for Living," I feel that the spirit of sportsmanship means a lot to our youth of today. "Here, Bill, take the ball"—not only applies on the gridiron, but in the battle of living. All famous Americans are and were sportsmen. Washington, Lincoln, Grant, Pershing, John Paul Jones, Henry Ford and many others. Our baseball fans, football cheer squads, the players themselves and other sportsmen of today do not form a new and unfamiliar race. They are the same Americans as those who in 1776 declared their independence. The trait that played so great a part in the realization of American independence, the establishing of Yankee per--sonality was "being a good sport."

Had Washington not been a sportsman the U. S. today might still be known as "The Colonies." He had wealth and social position, but he cast his lot with a band of starving troops because he believed their cause to be just, and won with an iron will and a fighting spirit that would not be downed. In our present crisis how has America turned out experienced fighting men in the course of a few months? By keeping both mind and body occupied.

I feel that we the class of nineteen forty-five have a good beginning. We as Freshmen are now a class of the past, and there is opportunity ahead of us and work for each. Two famous sayings of Lincoln were "Let none falter who thinks he is right," and "Let us have faith that right makes might." So as we go on with our preparation to take the place of those who have gone before us, we shall be "Good sports," be loyal to God, to our country and will strive to do only that which will bring honor to our school and our great country.

TRENDS IN ELEMENTARY EDUCATION

by Frank Altaffer

Dissatisfaction with the limited vision and narrow program of yesterday's school has brought educators to a point where they realize that they must establish new goals and employ new procedures if they wish to educate tomorrow's citizens.

The difficulty in making the transition from a narrow formal instructional type of schooling to a broad balanced dynamic program of child development is apparent on every hand.

In spite of these difficulties a new conception of the functions and objectives of elementary education is rapidly gaining acceptance. A new vision of its possibilities is bringing about the mobilization of all the resources of the school and an organization of all its machinery to promote the best development of each individual child.

THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL BUILDING

STUDENT COUNCIL BUILDS ARSENAL FOR DEMOCRACY

by Bonnie Belle King

Perfect democracy is not an accomplishment that comes with a flash. Through untiring effort and cooperation may we gain that goal for whch we are striving. We as high school students must learn to shoulder responsibility without fear of being criticized, and to perform our duties with a smile.

To be good citizens we must live the democratic way of life. It has been said that democracy implies a changing government to meet existing conditions, cooperation after a majority decision is made and control of all affairs by representatives of the people. This has been the goal for which the Student Council has striven. It is a very necessasy and influential organization conducted upon the principles of democracy. Its purpose is to aid in solving common problems of the student body.

Because we feel that a larger representation can better meet difficult situations; make decisions more effectively, our Student Council has been enlarged from nine to twenty-five members. In addition to the president and the council-members-at-large, who are elected by the student body, we have two representatives from each of the four classes. To this group we have added all presidents of classes and organizations. A new feature of our Council is the four commissions also chosen from the four classes. They too are a most important factor in the democracy of a school.

By sitting in on one of the meetings, you would be enlightened as to the Council's democratic procedure. Informal discussion periods seem to be a popular feature. Many projects have resulted from those discussions. Included among these were Open House, adoption of the Council Seal, interesting assembly programs, promotion of the Christmas figures for gymnasium and countless others.

Our officers for 1941-42 were as follows: President, Bonnie King; Council Member-at-Large, Wesley Lamberson; Vice-President, Dene Richmond; Secretary, Wayne Nolin; Treasurer, Helen Perkins. Chairmen of Commissions were: Assembly, Doris Cummins; Social Service, Ralph Cox; Finance, Bethel Brim, and Citizenship, Dorothy Robison.

ASSEMBLY COMMISSION

by Ruth Newman

The Assembly Committee is a newly appointed branch of our Student Council, composed of two students from each class. The purpose of this committee is to select and obtain beneficial as well as amusing entertainment for the student body.

We feel we are fortunate, this year, in being able to provide some fine entertainers. Our programs consisted of movies, a lecturer, a blind xylophonist, a handless musician, zoology exhibition, aviation slides, actors' guild and a magician.

By affording this entertainment we hope to promote in the minds of students, their liking for better things. So as they move ahead in life they will have a good background.

SOCIAL SERVICE COMMISSION

by Catherine Cox

Four Commissions were organized this year to help our Student Council in its work of the school government. One of these was the Social Service Commission consisting of nine students and advised by Mr. Howald, our principal. Their duty was to locate students to fill positions. The faculty listed various jobs that were open for students within the school. The list was posted and all those interested or wishing to apply filled out application blanks. These jobs were well filled and the plan proved to be a success. It established more cooperation between the faculty and the student body, and also aided in developing a realistic attitude toward work and to foster a keener sense of adult responsibility. The students who gain work experience in service to society, may later accept democratic responsibilties that lead to real democracy which is an essential factor in America during this great crisis.

MIRROR HAS BIGGES

by Dene Richmond

If we did not know that practically every great American writer on the stage today got his journalistic start back in high school days, either by having a good nose for news or being proclaimed editor of the Yearbook, we might feel that time used for the promotion of publications was ill spent.

We realize, however, that journalism is one of the leading vocations in the world today and since so little has been done in the way of curricular planning, we feel that the student working on a publication is being equipped in a very definite way for a profitable career.

In our high school, we have a highly organized staff and a technically arranged program which gives every member of the Senior Class an opportunity to personally materialize some phase of the Yearbook.

Our staff personnel is as follows:

THE HI-LINE

by Wayne Pike

The Hi-Line, a bi-monthly paper, is circulated widely through the school. During the two years of its existence it has gained much popularity and been greatly in demand. At present we sell approximately .... issues to students and have a number of businessmen who desire a complete coverage of school activities.

The Hi-Line staff is composed of .... members, ranging from Editor-in-Chief to Feature Editors, reporters, copy and proofreaders, and mimeographers. The faculty adviser is Miss M. E. Naylor. Each person must fulfill his position to make the paper a success.

The main purpose of the paper is to raise the school spirit, interest students of one department in the work of students in another and give a clear recital of any new activities in the school in which individuals may participate. It is a booster for our teams, urging them on to victory. It helps the timid freshmen to become acquainted with the customs of the school, and how to apply themselves to each.

This paper is not, however, solely for the jokes of the different students, but includes the teacher's views, too. If a teacher has an article, perhaps educational, or one of importance, she needs only to take it to a reporter who will quickly "punch it out" and turn it over to the proofreaders. Such an article, as a rule, is given prominence over another.

The Hi-Line is proud of its accomplishments and has filled an important niche in our program.

The Hi-Line carries as a regular feature, inserts taken from papers of other schools, which may be of interest to our own readers. In this way we not only have the highlights of "Pelier High," but of the other schools as well.

The Hi-Line has a sport page given strictly to the boys on our team, pointing out their strong points and the factors that aid them to push to victory.

HOLD THAT POSE

by Harold Gunn

This unique club was formed that students might gain a knowledge of photography, through its many phases—from the candid snapshot to the up-to-date motion picture—from the darkroom to the finished portrait. At the click of the shutter, one knows that he has concealed one of life's great moments; a picture that will establish happy memories for the future.

We are gratified for the interest shown by many local men who have devoted valuable time in giving us the fine arts of picture making.

Mr. C. B. Doenges gave an exceptional demonstration on development, printing, enlarging and finishing our snapshots.

Mr. Fisher presented a motion picture of the every-day scenes of our town. Mr. Charles Heller gave a delightful and picturesque reel of his summer vacation spent in the cool, refreshing mountain scenery of Alaska.

We have also had many talks and demonstrations from Eastman Kodak Company on sight control, shutter technique, the trick of night photography, light and shadows—all of which give us further knowledge of the necessary details to observe in making the perfect photo.

Early in the year we planned a picture contest, and it was not uncommon to see many kodaks in operation or hear the cry, "Hold that pose."

On contest day, we were gratified to see so many entries and were pleased with the numerous attempts to arrive at the unusual.

The judges, after much deliberation, chose John Selkman as the winner.

The officers of this organization were John Selkman, President; Ralph Cox, Vice-President; Geraldine Greenman, Treasurer; Donald Miller, Secretary.

Our album of memories will, indeed, not be forgotten.

THE ARSENAL OF GOOD MUSIC

by Tommy Prosser

On March 27, the annual band concert was held in the high school auditorium. The audience was held speechless while several special numbers were being played.

All throughout the concert the audience was amazed at the marvelous cooperation shown by every musician. The concert brought loud cheers and a roaring applause. The audience, which was composed of several hundred people, didn't indulge in this as a kindly gesture, instead they had music in their hearts and other thoughts were stored away in the back of their heads during the concert. When any person or group of persons can keep an audience in a trance, I think they merit reward.

ORCHESTRA

by Tommy Prosser

The high school orchestra made an unsurpassed hit this year with the high school students. They offered the students all types of music and they really know how to play it. In this way, with the cooperation of the band and athletic organizatons we never had a dull moment in our whole senior year.

SINK OR SING FOR TOMORROW

by Hester Welch

Of all fine arts, music is perhaps the most wonderful. The most uplifting and the most complete an art that has been carried down through the centuries and that will continue to travel into each and every tomorrow.

The Girl's Glee Club has practiced diligently and willingly to bring forth and present harmony that is satisfying and pleasing to the ear. Under the capable direction of Miss Saxton, voices have been developed and brought forth as a direct compliment of her training.

Upon many programs throughout the year, there have appeared numbers of educational enjoyment, contributed by the Glee Clubs.

The outstanding musical event of the year was the operetta, "Carmelita" by Helen Bogg. The Boys and Girls Glee Clubs combined to successfully presented both a matinee and an evening performance.

The play centers around a Spanish ranch, where Carmelita, played by Marjory Kiley, her brother, Carlos, LeRoy Peterson and their mother, Senora Valnerda, by Margaret Osborn, live with their friends and servants. Carmileta is betrothed to Don Poblo Arradonno Le Leon, Richard Pressler, but falls in love with Henry Post, played by James Montgomery, the leader of the party of American Surveyors which stopped at the ranch upon losing their way.

Lusea and Juanita, played by Gwen Bishoff and Hester Welch, are Carmelita's best friends. Jose, Ira Kannell, Manuald, Cissy Rothenburger, Armelita and Delores played by Marion Eberly and Ila Jump are the servants. Jose is in love with Juanita. He serenades her but she only ignores and teases him.

The Americans save the Spaniards from a tribe of hostile Indians and upon their return from the battle they brought back with them Senora Donna Consuelo, played by Elnora Krisher, an old flame of Don Poblo. Carmelita and Henry; Don Poblo and Donna Consuelo, Jose and Juanita and Carlos and the American girl Sally, played by Marilyn Sheaffer were happily united in love and the Spaniards return once more to their gay and peaceful life.

ASSISTING YOUTH TO BETTER FELLOWSHIP

Ralph Huber, President

This country is calling for young men who are trained mentally, morally and physically. The "Hi-Y" was organized in 1845 by a young boy of sixteen, who was a clerk in London, England, when he persuaded his fellow clerk to meet with him for Bible and prayer study. From this sprang the seed of "Young Men's Christian Association," to bring a deeper appreciation of Christian principles and Spiritual things. Consequently we now have the "Hi-Y" with the purpose of maintaining and extending throughout the school and community a standard of Christian character, and standing on the platform of the Four C's of "Clean speech, clean sportsmanship, clean scholarship and clean living." This Hi-Y organization was organized for the purpose that young men of the High School may devote an hour every one or two weeks. An organization of this kind promotes and aids men to become fine American citizens and enables them to be very fine leaders among the masses of people today.

The "Hi-Y" emblem is a triangle and is shaped with a small cross to represent the body of Christ. The three triangle sides stand for body, mind and spirit. The body is what the "Hi-Y" aims to develop, the mind which is necessary for cultivation and the Spirit which strives to build a bigger Christian soul in each individual life.

The activities of the "Hi-Y" this year were different and interesting as well as beneficial. With the help of our capable and sincere advisor, Mr. Filiere, we have had many good speakers and programs, which left helpful and valuable thoughts in each of our minds.

The meetings are held every two weeks on Monday. The program consists of the Lord's Prayer, the purpose and platform of the "Hi-Y," a strict business meeting and all sort of topics and discussions.

During the year Mr. Shaeffer and Rev. Roberts gave us talks on different subjects which were very interesting. Other discussions among the club were "boy and girl relationship," "discussion of the Lord's Prayer" and one which was oustanding was a program on "The War of Today."

The "Hi-Y" during the past year, at Christmas time with the Girl Reserves, packed Christmas boxes and distributed them among the needy.

Together we sponsored a Hi-Y and Girl Reserve dance for all of the members. With the Girl Reserves we gave a Christmas program for an assembly number.

Officers of the organization are chosen in regard to their morals and ideals and who will live up to the purpose and platform of the "Hi-Y."

This organization has a very high moral standing and the morale of this club is the strenght of the school. We urge all the boys to live a life which will entitle them to membership in this worthwhile organization.

TEEN AGE, TRAINS FOR THE FUTURE

by Martha Spankrell

Recognition of the need of young girls for definite training to help meet the serious problems of living is coming not only in colleges, but also in high schools operating under public school systems.

Each girl must choose four projects to do throughout the year. At the end of the year the girls must write out their projects to be handed in.

The students are taught good grooming and all there is to know about babies and little children, their care and feeding. Theories of text books are demonstrated before their eyes and explained by the advisor, Miss Braithwaite. Also, throughout the four years the girls are taught the advantages of Home Furnishings, Budgeting, and the Problems of diet.

The Home Economics department was hostess to their mothers at a tea and style show and each girl modeling the clothing they themselves have made.

Again this year we joined the Future Farmers and Home Economics girls in a formal banquet for the parents to get better acquainted with our instructors.

We have reason to be proud of this forward-looking education which faces facts and gives training to meet the real problem of real living.

Sitting: Norma Jean Watt, Secretary, Miss Braithwaite, Adviser.
Standing: Dorothy Tingle, Program Chairman, Jane Knecht, Vice President, Doris Brown, President, Jean Knecht, Treasurer.

ACTIVITIES OF THE F. H. A.

by Helen Ensign

The Future Homemakers Association is based on the Vocational Home Economics program. The difference between Home Economics and Vocational Home Economics is the project work consisting of the extra practices of the ideas learned in class. We try to gain more accuracy and efficiency in dealing with these problems by continued practice.

No school work is complete without having some outside activites to make the work more beneficial and interesting. During the school year monthly meetings are held which are based on topics of the Home Economics work. Some of the topics were a play on Good Grooming, Parliamentary Procedures and ways of helping in the defense program.

Outside activities began with the organization meeting with their sponsor, Miss Braithwaite for a potluck which was followed by the initiation of new members into the Little Women Degree. This degree is given to all members in Home Economics.

The next attraction for the club was a mixer of the F. H. A. and F. F. A. which was followed by a theatre party.

In early December the F. H. A. and F. F. A. held a Parent, Daughter, Son banquet with about one hundred and eighty persons attending. A very interesting program followed with members of both clubs participating.

Election of officers was held at the April meeting and the officers for the school year of 1942 and 1943 were: President, Lynette Tingley; Vice-President, Norma Hepner; Secretary, Pauline Maier, Treasurer, Eleanor Krisher, and Historian, Patricia Houk.

LE CERCLE FRANÇAIS

by Wayne Pike

Le Cercle Francais, better known as the French club has completed another year in which members betook themselves to improve their knowledge of the customs of Old France.

Many articles, telling of the strife of the French people today, and the attempts of the Free French to aid their nation, have been brought to light and discussed at the meetings.

A method of communication between the French club and a French cadet was considered. In this, the class was to write at least one letter a month, including a sum of three to five dollars in it, and in return would be assured a return letter, providing he sent a self-addressed stamp envelope.

This was abandoned because of its high expense and the relatively few members to bear the responsibility.

An outside speaker, the advisor's wife, Mrs. Faben, gave an interesting talk on French artists and their works, bringing portions of her collection for examples.

The Club has an interesting French game called "Authors" which it plays. From two to seven players may be engaged in this game. In his turn each persons must repeat, "Donnez-moi, s'il vous plait ———," naming the author whom he desires. If he speaks in English he loses his turn to the next one. .

The advisor has in his possession a group of one-act French plays. Members of the club expressed a desire to dramatize one for the student body. A comedy of one act was chosen but was cancelled by the inability of the members to practice because of after-school positions.

The officers of the club consist of:

President.....Marguerite McDaniel
Vice-President.....Marjory Youngs
Secretary-Treasurer.....Ted Roberts
Program Chairman.....Orlando Allman
Advisor.....Mr. W. W. Faben

The advisor, Mr. Faben, is most valuable. Having been in France during the World war 1, he can give it much first-hand information, and all can be sure that his French grammar is not home-talented, but attained while on active duty as interpreter and on the battlefield there.

Besides the officers there are ten other members in the club who take an active part in the procedure at every available chance. The programs are planned to give most, if not all, members an opportunity to participate.

LATIN LEAGUE

The Master Key to American Culture

The Latin League was organized this year by Mary Connell Bower, with an initial membership of forty, all students of the first and second year Latin classes. Its aim is to promote a knowledge of the manners and customs of an earlier civilization, an understanding of the language which forms the basis of sixty percent of our English vocabulary, as well as being the source of about nine tenths of the French, Spanish, Portugese and Italian words.

By understanding the civilization of ancient times our eyes are opened to the problems of our day. By giving plays and making reports on such topics as road-building, relief, the housing situation in Rome, food, clothing, and furniture, we hope to promote an interest in Latin and to do away with the idea that it is a dull and a dead language.

We had made plans to visit the Art Museum in Toledo and we hope that this plan will be carried out next year. Besides plays and talks there are many singable Latin songs and members are encouraged to try their skill at making translations of contemporary songs.

In this day of stressing the practical, let it be said that the study of Latin increases our understanding of the English language, and our accuracy in expressing ideas. For the professions of medicine and engineering a knowledge of Latin is well nigh indispensable.

The cultural aspect, surely not to be overlooked, is obvious to any intelligent person, for reference to mythology and many quotations are understood by the student of Latin. Surely we can say that to a sound understanding and true appreciation of large segments of our current American culture the Latin language and literature is a master key.

FOOD WILL WIN THE WAR AND WRITE THE PEACE

by Walter Bauer

The Vocational Agriculture Course in Montpelier High School gives the farm boys a chance to become educated in fine points of modern farming. They are taught to work and profit by experience of others. Now is the greatest test of our democracy, food is the deciding element. The farmer will have to furnish it. The new methods of farming will enable him to get the most from his work.

The farm shop course in the school is a very decisive part of our agricultural course. It will take its place in National Defense. In the set-up for the duration, what will happen? Will farm shop be as important as agriculture? The boys are taught to repair farm tools and do it so that there will be more use made of worn machinery. They repair motors and also machinery such as mowers, corn planters and drills. The new line of machinery and tools installed in our shop is indeed appreciated.

Yes, these boys may some day hold their own in their farming program with any other nation. They learn to farm for Democracy.

F. F. A. SUMMER TRIP

by John Krill

During the month of August, 1941, a group of seventeen F. F. A. boys and adviser, K. N. Morse, took their annual trip which lasted five days and four nights. Some of the highlights of this trip were a visit to the Niagara Falls, a short gaze at the Blue Hole at Castalia, Ohio, a tour of Goodyear Rubber Co. at Akron, Ohio, a visit of Post Day at Seleron Park in New York and a short visit into Canada. On the way home they stopped at the Experimental Station at Wooster, Ohio.

CONSERVATION

by Richard Johnston

It was during the last generation that the need of conservation was brought to view. With this in mind, let us remember the duties of the present generation for now and tomorrow.

We have set up safety zones, feeding stations and have protected wild life and natural resources.

To further these efforts, the Conservation League of Williams county offered prizes to those with high scores. Our chapter took second place in the county and third place in the state.

Those who distinguished themselves from others in our chapter in Williams county were Harley Deisler, first place; Junior Cogswell, second; Rolland Lattanner, third, and Elgie Stickney, fourth.

THE BANNER OF CHRIST MUST BE KEPT FLYING

by Doris Cummins

The Girl Reserves serve as Crusaders, in promoting higher moral and spiritual concepts for better living throughout the country. In this time of war and turmoil, we must do all that is within us to prevent the upheaval of human welfare. The banner of Christ must keep flying.

In lighting the candle every meeting, we show that our spirit is burning bright, ever ready to set a spark to those who are ready to receive. This light will continue to burn in all who have been in our midst and have used the Bible as their guide book.

We plan that each program shall have some food for religious reflection, with the scripture reading and prayer a part of every service. We believe these to be the essential elements toward our future success. We also include in our programs, discussion topics that will be not only of interest to girls but will bring to them some fundamental information. We give opportunity for all kinds of talent, musical or artistic. This gives to participants an opportunity for development and servies as an outlet toward future entertainment.

Our first project for the year was one very kindly received and much appreciated by the faculty and administrators. During open house, early in the fall, our club sent bouquets to each teacher of the building and large baskets of asters to the superintendent and principal, which greatly improved the appearance of the rooms and added a bit of cheer for our guests.

Our second venture was a party honoring our newly acquired freshmen, which met with enthusiastic approval and applause by all present.

At Thanksgiving time we, in company with the Hi-Y organization, sent around twenty baskets of food to needy families of the community.

At the Yule season we surprised our student body and faculty by placing a huge Christmas tree in the entrance hall, brilliantly lighted and decorated, as a greeting from our club.

We were also sponsors with the Hi-Y for the assembly program at Christmastide and presented a pageant play, "The Supreme Gift," which proved to be very effective and inspirational.

A spring tea was given in honor of our mothers and was met with the highest approval by all present.

The most formal occasion was the annual Mother-Daughter banquet held during the closing days of school as a farewell to the senior members.

May her candlelight continue to burn forever, shedding its bright rays on all who pass her.

GIRL RESERVE CONFERENCE
by Ruth Newman

The Annual Convention of the Girl Reserves of Northwestern Ohio met at Wauseon on April 11. Although the delegation from Montpelier was small this year, our club took an active part in the business and discussion groups.

The theme of the morning discussion was "Facing This Hour" from which our club gained timely suggestions. In the afternoon inspiring messages were given by Miss Helen Persinger, District Secretary and Mrs. Lemmon.

Later each school reported on the accomplishments of their club. Due to the guidance of our capable advisor, Miss Burns, our representative was able to report a very gratifying year of Girl Reserve club work.

The Tri-County Conference of 1943 will be held at Montpelier.

BEACON LIGHTS OF THE FUTURE
by Donna Ann Miller

The chaotic conditions of the world tend to rivet the thoughts of the multitudes upon the incidents of the moment. It is difficult not to think in terms of aeroplanes, tanks and ships; but to allow one's self to do so is to lose the sense of balance that is most vital in this time of crisis.

Whatever the horror of the moment, life marches on, unconquerable, with its face toward the future. Peace will inevitably return, and the sword shall be hammered into plowshares; but, as the aged know from experience and the youth realize from having grown in the valley of the shadow of war, our combined energies must be exerted if this peace be lasting.

The education of the public so that they may understand the constituents of peace, lies upon the schools of the land. These institutions must plant in youth the realization that all is not over just because everything is interrupted.

Military preparedness must not weaken the support of education. Educators must develop the capacity for straight thinking. Toward this end, the following are taking one step forward when they compete in the annual district scholarship tests at Bowling Green on May third:

English I, Patsy Bennett and Eloise Connolly; English II, Gwyn Bishoff and Marion Eberly; English III, Arlene Harford and Iris French; English IV, Madonna Herman and Bette Krusell; General Science, Dick Williams and Ted Clark; Biology, Roger Ely and Robert Wilson; Physics, Wayne Nolin and Louis Courtney; Chemistry, Harvey Scott and Eugene Kosier; Algebra, Barbara Nolin and Marilyn Shaeffer; Geometry, June Powers and Donald Carrott; French I, Barbara Heller and Ralph Cox; French II, Wayne Pike; Latin I, Dorothy Robison and Dale Pushee; Latin II Marjorie Rothenberger; World History, Robert Dean and Rosalie Roush; American History, Joan Mansfield and Wayne Ditrick; Social Science, Jerry Chappell; Shorthand I, Marilyn Miller and Dick Pressler; Shorthand II, Bonnie King and Donna Miller; Typing I, Phyllis Ankeny and Will Welch; Bookkeeping I, Faye Tressler and Priscilla Kannel.

In the air services and other branches of National Defense, physical fitness is required. We must train to give the finest coordination. All through the centuries the secret of victory lays in physical fitness. The techniques that are developed in sports will give greater advantage and opportunity to the raiders of the sky.

COACH JAMES KESSLER
by Gene Kosier

James Kessler, better known as "Jim," loved the game of football. He played four years at Troy High School, and three years at Miami University. At Miami, he was chosen "All Ohio" and "Little All American" in his Junior and Senior years. He had received professional offers from the Detroit Lions and New York Giants but turned them down for coaching job at Columbus. Here he proved he was a coach for his team placed second.

In August, 1941, he came to Montpelier to coach a green and inexperienced team. Although the season was bad, the coach has given us much spirit and fight, something which Monteplier has not shown in many years

COACH HUFFMAN
by Charles Bratton

A man of grit and determination, always wearing a smile and always the same, is our coach. In his first year with us, he showed his great ability in handling a squad as it should be handled. "Rus" was always willing to take whatever came, whether it was victory or defeat. His teachings do not stop at basketball, but they reach further into the depths of a boy's heart and make him a better person to live in this world. His definition of victory was "Do not look at the score to find victory, but rather try to see what is going on inside the boy himself and victory is found."

COACH RADENBAUGH
(Athletic Director)
by Dick Byers

"Finish Strong." Those are the words of our track coach and Director of Athletics. Lately, Athletics has enlarged and become so complicated that it is necessary to have a school official to preside over its destinies. The duty of the Director of Athletics is to schedule games, sign contracts, check eligiblity, and take care of all financial obligations.

Besides all this Coach Radenbaugh, better known as "Tobe," is our track coach. It seems he is here, there and everywhere teaching boys to run a little faster, jump a little higher, or throw heavy weights for greater distances.

WILL THE SPORT PARADE CONTINUE?

by Wesley Lamberson

Gazing into the deep blue waters of the future we wonder whether the great Sport parade is going to be halted once more. Twenty-five years ago some of the world's best athletes went forth to serve in World war number one.

Today the sporting world is again shattered. Boys out of high school who gave their best on the gridiron, basketball courts, in the field of track, and in baseball are ready and waiting for the uncertain future ahead. Ready to give their sturdy bodies and lives for the cause of humanity.

They will go forth into battle knowing they can withstand great odds and still win. Their athletic training has been developed during school and their minds are keen and tense. They wait for the guns to roar like the start of a race in track and when it is sounded they will go forth and fight not for their school or themselves but for their country.

They know not what their destination may be but they are ready. The question still stands—will the many millions of sports fans forget the great American games? Throw it aside like an old hat? This is not the American way of doing things but time only will tell.

"M" CLUB

by Dene Richmond

The "M" club is an extremely young organization of Montpelier High, originated this year by our new football coach, Mr. Kessler. The true ideal of the club is to uphold true sportsmanship in sports. The members of the club include all the men that have earned a letter and are still in school, and the managers. Regular meetings are held, once every two weeks. We have our constitution framed and our officers chosen. There are no dues paid, but when money is needed, we seem to secure it in some way.

The fellows of the "M" club are true sportsmen, where training is their guide. The word defeat is not in their vocabulary, but sometimes, like a volcanic overflow, it can't be stopped.

The constitution was written by a selected group, and they really did a superb job. Its content is the necessary information needed to be a member, including the rules, regulations and other clauses vital to its function.

Our meetings are held on the basis of the Congress of the United States, with the president-elect presiding. The secretary keeps notes on the meetings and a record of all important business, passed by the group. The treasurer oversees the funds taken in. The Sargeant-at-Arms and his assistant have charge of the conduct of the group, where a fee of ten cents is collected for all unnecessary talking.

This, in a general way, will give you an idea of our young organization, the "M" Club, which in years to come will be one of the well-known clubs in the school.

UNCLE SAM'S HEROE

Wes. Lamberson

Out of the dear blue skies of September, Montpelier was blessed with two new coaches, J. P. Kessler and R. Huffman. Both coaches brought with them a fine record and reputation.

Coach Kessler believed in hard work and kept the undying words of good sportsmanship and spirit alive.

A very light and inexperienced team came forth and was ready for their first season's practice. The team worked long nights and practiced hard and soon they were ready for their first major battle with Hicksville.

It was difficult to judge the team as a whole in their first game because many were new and it was their first real test. When lights were dimmed and the field was quiet, we found our team on the short end of a 7-0 defeat.

Then came Napoleon and we were ready for battle. The spirit was high and we thought victory was in reach, but Napoleon was superior in power and once more we were left behind a 34-7 score.

The Wauseon Indians were our next foe and the red warriors were mighty and again they had a fair team. When the dust had settled we

THEIR FOOTBALL

DICK PLOUCK (Guard)

Dick won many friends by showing a true fighting heart. He will always be remembered for shiftiness and cleverness as a lineman.

GENE KOSIER (Quarterback)

Gene, a new boy at Montpelier, showed fight and much spirit. His mates chose him as co-captain and he lived up to it by his leadership.

MARION LEE (End)

Lee was always a dependable end when needed for duty. He kept the team in good spirits and showed much fight when in action.

RALPH HUBER (End)

Ralph was known for his speed and ability to snag passes. He was also known for his broken field running, but due to injuries, he was withheld from action.

BARNEY MICHAELS (Tackle)

Barney played both tackle positions with capable experience. His force and ability caught many opponents unprepared. His offensive tactics were superb.

N THE MAKING

were left with a score of 7 to their score of 20.

The squad grew smaller but the team's fine spirit was outstanding.

Then came Paulding and the night was clear but there was no light for us and there was no mercy as we were crushed 51-0.

Then came Bryan. We hadn't won a game thus far but we were fighting. We went to Bryan eager to tear the Bears from their victory run over us, but when the last second ticked off, we had been pushed far and were beaten 49-0.

The next week we made plans for Delta's heavy team. We had been walked over all season and again we were trampled 34-0.

Then we journeyed to Sylvania and were ready to battle once more. We had little choice in the matter and we were swamped 52-0.

Then Liberty Center and our chance for at least one league victory, but it was not to be. After the gun echoed in the distance we were left with an 8-0 defeat.

The day was Thanksgiving and our foe was the Defiance Bulldogs. We had little chance and tumbled as the team of "42" by the score of 54-6.

We had won no games but had gotten one thing and that was team spirit.

DAYS ARE OVER

WES LAMBERSON (Halfback)

A hard driving, fleet footed, halfback was Wes. He used his head in calling signals and was a sure tackler on defense. He was chosen co-captain by this team.

DENE RICHMOND (Center)

Injuries of a bad leg had bothered Dene all year but despite this, he played his position with capable ability. He was always upsetting plans of the opponent.

WALTER CONNOLLY (End)

Walt had but one year of experience but won his place with fighting spirit and the urge to win. He carried out his duty on offense as well as defense.

DICK GEE (Guard)

A strong determination to fight and win, kept "Tucker" at his guard post. He never became discouraged, no matter what the odds were.

DICK TINGLE (Halfback)

Dick showed the true locomotive spirit by keeping the team fighting and always moving. His ability to upset a worthy opponent was terrific.

MONTPELIER LOCOMOTIVES CLOSE SEASON WINNING NINE, LOSING ELEVEN

by Walter Connolly

Though the completed schedule of the Locomotives is not the best in the history of the school, it is one long to be remembered. Coach Russel Huffman's first team at Montpelier won nine and lost eleven contests. In so doing, they showed teamwork and a true fight. Something which has not been witnessed in several years.

In the Northwestern Ohio League, the Locomotives registered three victories and seven defeats.

On December 5, 1941, the Locomotives opened their seasons with Hicksville. By a fast and furious start, we were swept off our feet. Attempts to settle down and play ball were in vain. H. 44, M. 22. December 6, we met West Unity. By teamwork that showed mid-season form, we secured our first victory. M. 42, W. U. 27. December 12, we encountered Bryan, in our first League game. A Bryan bucket in the closing second proved victorious. B. 18, M. 15. December 16, Pioneer was our opponent. The Locomotives took the lead and did not relinquish it. M. 27, P. 25. December 19, we met the League's favorite team, the Defiance Bulldogs. After holding them for three quarters with a tight zone defense they secured a victory. D. 37, M. 20. December 23, a speedy Van Wert team handed us a stinging defeat. V. W. 33, M. 15. December 30, Edgerton, a tall team won a hard-earned victory. E. 25, M. 23. January 6, the first game of the new year was with Wauseon. They proved victorious after the lead had changed hands for three quarters. W. 36, M. 25. January 9, Napoleon, our next encounter, connected from all

Manager Hoffman

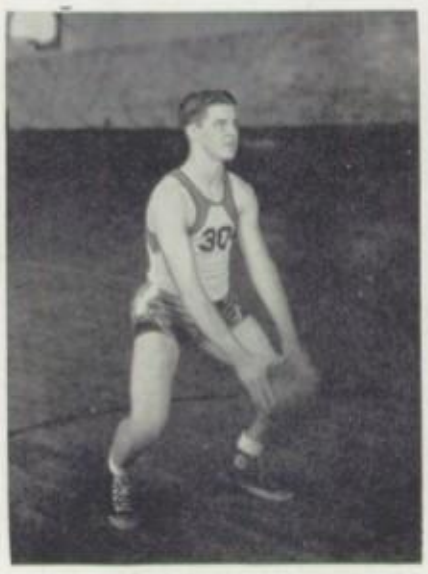
On any team a boy is required that will help carry the team's load and be a cheerful companion. Such a boy we call "Our manager," Junior Hoffman. Taking care of equipment, cleaning balls, and keeping the locker room in order, are his duties which we know—but there are far more that only the manager himself can know. Sharing with us the tears of defeat and the glory of victory, he comes through, always ready for his next duty.

Charles Bratton

"Chuck" was chosen as Captain of the team, and was well known for his determination and aggressiveness. He was truly optimistic and helped his teammates with a ready smile, and good luck attitude.

Walter Connolly

"Walt" would truly be a credit to any squad. A coach's dream of a player who was a master of the pivot shot, he likewise was a dangerous man from any place on the floor. Yes, Walt was a credit to his position, and a credit to the 41-42 squad.



angles to obtain a victory. N. 38, M. 20. January 10, we played Edon in the National Naismith Golden Jubilee Memorial Tournament. M. 27, E. 25. January 15, Liberty Center secured a victory over us in an overtime game. L. C. 29, M. 28. January 20, Stryker proved an easy victory by what seemed to be a pet score. M. 42, S. 27. January 23, our second encounter with Napoleon proved a much different question than the first. By fight and teamwork we got revenge. M. 37, N. 22. January 30, by overcoming a lead in the final minutes of play Bryan proved victorious in a hard fought battle. B. 30, M. 27. February 6, another chance with Liberty Center evened the series. In a rough and tumble game we proved victorious. M. 22, L. C. 21. February 13, our second round with Wauseon was met by a high spirited Locomotive Five. By fight and determination, we played our best game of the seasin. M. 28, W. 27. February 17, in setting a gymnasium record the Locomotives defeated Alvorton. A game in which the entire squad saw action. M. 60, A. 10.

In the "Class A Tournament" at Defiance,

Wesley Lamberson

"Wes" was one who played the game for the team he represented. Never discouraged, hard to turn back, was Wes, and his pep and drive set up many baskets for his team. His ability on set shots turned the hopes of many opposing teams.

Orville Carpenter

"Buzz" was always in there with his speed, and his accuracy for the hoop. His motto was "The game for the game's sake." His defensive play on our zone spelled "sew up" to many opposing teams.

Just Before the Battle

First Five: Wesley Lamberson, Walter Connolly, Coac Hoffman, Charles Bratton, Roger Ely, Orville Carpenter. Second Five: Robert Storrer, Dene Richmond, Max Reese, Ronald Brown, Eugene Kosier.

Roger Ely

"Doc" was a fast man on the floor, and a dead shot from the front. He seemed to always be there in the pinches, with his shooting, passing and "playing the game."

Eldene Richmond
"Dene" was the rebound man of the team. His scrap in the pinches gave "Pelier" the ball when it was badly needed. No matter when Dene entered the game he could be counted on to hold his position.

Robert Storrer
"Bob" came in the game with lots of pep, which lasted until the final whistle. He was always in there "off the backboard" and the first one back on defense. His pivot shots rang the bell often for the home squad.

Max Reese
"Maxie's" motto was "The right tip means a point" and he used his height to prove his motto. Max, in his Freshman year, has proven his ability and will undoubtedly be in there in the future years.

Ronald Brown
"Ronnie" was the little man of the team. This was Ronnie's first year on the Varsity, but he could always be called on "to do his part." His set shots and passing were vital factors on offensive play.

Eugene Koiser
"Gene" was "little but wise" throughout the year as a guard on our team. His fighting spirit from the first whistle to the last showed him a truly great performer. His defensive play was of the best and his offense credited his position.

we met the Napoleon Wildcats. By high scoring in the first quarter, it looked like a Locomotive victory. In the second and third quarter it proved otherwise. The final score N. 43, M. 35.

Although the Locomotives lost two more games than they won, they outscored their opponents by the margin of five points. The Locomotives averaged 29.12 points per game while opponents averaged 29.7 per game.

VOICE FOR VICTORY

by Margaret Osborn

The loud screaming and yelling throughout our basketball and football games will long be remembered. This year built the second story to our school spirit. The tower is left to be completed in the future.

It took long and strenuous hours of practice for the cheerleaders under the supervision of Miss Fitzsimons to undertake their duty of building up the school spirit of the student body through cooperation. This year these students proved to be outstanding figures on the athletic field.

Several rallies were planned by these students and their advisor. One of the events which turned out successfully was the parading through the streets with lighted torches—out to the fair grounds where they held a marshmallow roast and a yelling good time.

The more spirit the people show, the more victories our boys will honor our school with, so let's plan for the future and put every bit of our voices into these victories.

A FINE INVESTMENT FOR HUMAN DEFENSE

by Richard Byers

With the coming of the spring sunshine the volunteers for the 1942 track squad, reported to the cinder path in large numbers to take their places in the warmth of the bright spring sun.

This particular activity keeps the boys in good physical condition as well as brightening the school days when they feel the urge to skip school. This sport trains the boys that once they start an event to finish it to the best of their ability, and after they take their order from the coach it is up to each and every one to do his part without aid from anyone else and he has to be his own judge as to what to do from the start to the finish. It also gives the boys confidence in themselves as to how well they can handle their particular event which will help to give them confidence for undertakings in the future life as they face the world for themselves.

LEST WE FORGET

When you are turning in your suit for the last time it is not easy for one to keep from thinking about the fact that he will not be wearing the suit again. You think of the good times you have had and of the close games you have played and all the other experiences that you have had during the past season. Tears are shed as you hand your suit in to the manager, who also realizes that this is the last time that we will have those joyful experiences of going to games and playing "the great American game." So with thoughts in mind the seniors of the 41-42 squad say hats off to the coach and to every one that has helped to make a successful season for us.

SPORTSMANSHIP THE GOAL OF RECREATION

PHYSICAL FITNESS, AN IMPORTANT FACTOR OF TOMORROW

by Bonniebelle Brown

Bonnie Brown, President; Doris Priest, Treasurer; Rosalie Todd, Vice President; Miss Fitzsimmons; Deloris Fackler, Secretary.

The Girl's Recreation Association reviews the purpose and events of its first year in the Montpelier High School. It progresses rapidly and has taken its place as one of the active groups.

Its purpose is to foster interest in active recreation and give the girls of the school an opportunity to develop skills and techniques in a variety of activities, and forms better coordinated individuals, intelligent spectators and willing participants. Sportsmanship will always be the goal of G. R. A. and there is a very definite carry over between sportsmanship in games as well as in class rooms and other activities of today.

Each girl may participate in a group, team, or individual activity. Among these are archery, soccer, modern dancing, basketball, bowling, softball, tennis, and golf. Many girls participated in the bowling tournament and from these girls there were two teams chosen, the Dodgers and Indians, which were called the varsity team.

Last fall the G. A. A. elected their officers which were: President, Bonnibelle Brown; vice President, Rosalie Todd; Secretary, Dolores Fackler; Treasurer, Doris Priest. These officers drew up the constitution which will be followed in future years.

There were many special events which will be remembered by all who attended. On Hallowe'en the "M" Club and G. R. A. invited the student body to dress in their old clothes and come to the hard time party which was held in the gymnasium and was enjoyed by all.

"M" Club and G. R. A. had a box social and invited the Hi-Y. The girls brought beautifully decorated boxes and the boys bought the boxes to satisfy their appetite. There wasn't any complaining afterwards.

During basketball season G. R. A. was known as the booster group.

April 11th saw five G. R. A. members and their adviser, Miss Fitzsimmons, making a journey to Bryan to take part in an invitational play day with Stryker, Napoleon, and Bryan. During the morning we played volleyball, basketball, badminton, deck tennis, egg football, shuffleboard, ping pong, and jumped rope. In the afternoon tea and dancing was enjoyed by all. Our organization planned for an outdoor play day with members of G. R. A. from neighboring schools. We will include softball, archery, and track events.

May the 6th the girls honored their mothers at a tea held in the high school and at this time awards were presented to the girls and the following accepted their offices for next year. President, Helen Long; Vice President, Gwyn Bishoff; Secretary, Priscilla Kannel; Treasurer, Betty Smith.

I'm sure this organization will prove to be successful in the future years and all girls entering High School will look forward to being members of the G. R. A. The seniors regret that they will not be able to enjoy the G. R. A. for another year, and are very proud because they were the ones, along with Miss Fitzsimmons, that gave this organization its start, and they are looking forward for the underclassmen to carry on in the coming years.

FOR TOMMORROW BUILD TODAY

by Marguerite McDaniel

Women are taking their places in the world more and more each day. And so this proves the well known saying. "The individual ready today, is the individual who got ready yesterday." For the woman who is the leader tomorrow is the girl who was in physical education class today.

Cooperative physical activities teach one the necessity of mental cooperation, for it is true, healthy minds, require healthy bodies. That is why the girls physical education class of Montpelier High endeavored to learn the many rules of health and put them to use.

Much time was spent with exercises in muscular coordination. This was stressed with the idea in mind to be able to stand on your own two feet as well as with another's assistance.

"Our coach," Miss Fitzsimmons, wished to enlighten her students upon the necessity of perfect physical condition in order that they may be the participants in the game tomorrow.

Of all the boys enrolled in our school, only twelve were excused from this schedule.

A very thorough course of conditioning is required before boys are expected to enter fields of strenuous exercise.

Games participated in were basketball, volley ball, tumbling, boxing, and ping pong, with formation designs and calisthenics.

EDUCATION IN THE FUTURE

by Beth Alta Williams and Junior Dargitz

Education in the future will be more important than in years previous because of the need for workers to take the many places now being vacated by those entering the service of our country.

Our pre-college schools are the finest, but preparation for later advancement and security only begins in our elementary and high schools. After receiving a diploma from high school, your educational future still lies before you as a college education offers the advanced technical training that in previous years was available only by apprenticeship. Through the medium of these innumerable technical schools, even those seemingly dull can find that profession or vocation which suits his talents. Genius, because it is too often confined to only one field, needs the guidance and well rounded curriculum modern colleges offer. Emerson says, "Intellect lies behind genius, which is intellect constructive."

Future education will quite possibly follow the pattern now being set by many of this country's large manufacturers. They have schools which train persons in using their particular machines or equipment. This will no doubt become more widespread in years to come since much time will be saved in trying to re-adjust workers. Already flying is being extensively introduced as a definite part of college.

A new era in education is advancing.

MONTPELIER STUDENTS ENJOY COLORFUL SOCIAL CALENDAR

FACULTY ANSWERS CALL OF WILD

When the bronze and gold of Autumn brightened the western skies, teachers forsook the schoolroom duties for an evening and became students of nature's handicraft.

Faculty members from both schools shared the pleasure of going to Pokagon State Park for a get-to-gether, and if my eyes did not deceive me I'm certain that those huge baskets contained those proverbial good things that make up a picnic dinner.

New teachers were introduced, vacation experiences exchanged and an old fashioned sing added zest to the occasion.

GIRLS FOLLOW GLEAM

"To find and give the best," were impressive words to those who had chosen to become members of the Girl Reserve Club. In a beautiful and dignified ritual service sixteen girls pledged themselves to become keepers of the light in the circle of Christian living.

HARD TIMES ARE HERE AGAIN SAY G.R.A.

It might be an idle dream but when I chanced to peek into the gymnasium on the night of Hallowe'en, I was startled and amazed to find a corn shock staring me in the face and weird creatures beckoning me to participate in the activities.

I found to my surprise many of my friends, who once knew the meaning of wealth, but reduced now to poverty, and taking one last fling at society.

Even dignified faculty members were bereft of their cloaks of learning, and everyone seemed happy as they danced the favorites, Swing Your Partner and Virginia Reel. Refreshments of cider and doughnuts were enjoyed at a late hour.

AUTUMN IS PARTY TIME

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Shaeffer was the scene of a dinner party lovely in its appointments honoring the High School Faculty at the Thanksgiving season.

Long tables centered with gorgeous bouquets of autumn flowers and lighted by tall tapers presented a most artistic appearance. A delicious three course dinner was served, after which an evening of Bingo was enjoyed.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MISS CONNELL

An event that will long be remembered by Latin students was in the nature of a farewell party for Miss Connell who like "Helen of Troy" had been claimed by a hero of the skies and was soon to leave for the sunny southland. A well-planned potluck dinner was enjoyed, and members made plans for future club work choosing topics of interest for each meeting.

DANCING ENJOYED AT NOON HOUR

The Student Council is to be commended for its interest in providing recreation at the noon hour. The auditorium stage served as a dance floor and music was furnished by records purchased by different organizations.

This form of amusement provides an excellent opportunity for teaching dancing and furnished enjoyment for many students.

G. R. AND HI-Y HOSTS TO FRESHMEN

"Make me a child just for to-night," might well have been on the lips of every Freshman, for did not the "edict" read—"Boys must be girls and wear hair bows, rouge their cheeks and above all use lip stick—and girls braid your hair, don slacks, wear mis-matched shoes—and that's not all—you are to be servants of the upperclassmen."

After the entrance examination had been successfully passed, the freshmen slid into home base, ready for a most delightful and well-planned party of festivity topped off by delicious refreshments.

A pay-off party was the last word in up-to-date entertaining staged by the Sophomore boys as forfeit for not paying class dues on schedule. The boys were good sports and planned a unique and delightful program of song and dance, interspersed with stunts and amusements.

F.H.A. AND F.F.A. HONOR PARENTS

A traditional banquet which is looked forward to with much zest and enthusiasm is a Father-Mother guest night, which gives parents a chance to meet other boys and girls, compare notes with faculty members on their child's progress and mingle with neighbors and friends. Those unbidden guests can well testify to the fact that the farmer has plenty in his larder, for the heaps of food that weighed down the table were direct evidence of his preparedness program.

A guest speaker from Columbus gave a valuable and inspiring address on the timely topic, "Food Will Win the Conflict."

STYLE SHOW AND TEA BY G. R. A.

Even in war time, women love to see fashions and know what the best dressed folks are wearing. With this idea in mind G.R.A. girls modeled garments appropriate to wear on different occasions, from the very formal dress to playtime suits which proved most interesting and informational to the spectators. A board walk had been constructed from the stage out into the auditorium, which made possible a better showing of garments.

The girls of the Association were then awarded their letters and prizes for the year's activity in athletic work. A social hour over the teacups closed the entertainment.

MISS CONNELL HONORED BY FACULTY

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Faben were hosts to the faculty at a dinner party honoring Miss Mary Connell, who left the teaching ranks to become the bride of Mr. John Bower, a former instructor in our schools.

This cozy attractive home was an ideal place to take leave of our co-worker and extend our good wishes for a life of happiness and bliss. A beautiful silver tray was presented as a compliment from the faculty.

MR. AND MRS. FABEN ENTERTAIN

An event which brought much gladness and pleasure to potential college students was an invitation to meet with the Fabens and their guest, the President of Defiance College, that they might hear first hand something of the life of a college student and his problems. Dainty sandwiches, tea and punch was a fitting repast for such a delightful gathering.

GIRL RESERVES HONOR MOTHERS AT TEA

Springtime is always an appropriate time to show love and appreciation to those whom we cherish most. So what could be more fitting than sharing an hour with mother in a fairyland bedecked with all the blossoms of springtime. Such was the scene of an elaborately appointed tea given by the Girl Reserves. After a brief welcoming program, the guests were ushered into the gymnasium where they were served dainty refreshments of multi-colored sandwiches, hosts of delicious cookies and a refreshing cup of the Englishmen's fire-water. The girls were assisted by Mrs. Shaeffer and Mrs. Howald.

TEACHERS ENTERTAINED BY KANNELS

On one of the most disagreeable nights of the year, when old man winter returned to frighten spring, the faculty were sharing an evening of bliss and gaiety in the Kannel bower on Empire street, where warmth and hospitality reigned supreme. The Kannels were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Faben and Mr. and Mrs. Swanson in making the evening a success. A beautiful arched bower formed a perfect setting for the buffet luncheon and colorful spring flowers on a trellis marked the places of the guests.

After the luncheon, bridge furnished the entertainment for the evening.

CARMELITA CAST ENTERTAINED

After weeks of practice and rehearsal and a commendable showing, stars and cast of Carmelita celebrated their first night before the footlights by giving a dinner party in the High School Gymnasium. Balloons of every shape and size furnished the necessary color and decorations, and I'm certain that the cast will long remember the sumptuous repast that was served. They were free again, to enjoy an evening of dancing.

FOOTBALL DAYS ARE OVER

When you see plates stacked high with food and platters of meat being replenished, and tables laden with all the delicacies dear to a boy's heart—with pie (let's say it again) —pie and cake with ice cream, you just know football days are over.

On this particular occasion boys were admonished to "Remember Pearl Harbor" and use the tactics that had been so firmly embedded in their souls to fight the battle of humanity. Coach Whittaker of Bowling Green University was the guest speaker.

FRESHMEN HAVE COMING OUT PARTY

On Feb. 12, the Freshmen group arrayed in their Sunday best and accompanied by their favorite escorts held their first party of high school days.

We could scarce believe that children of an hour before could change into such beautiful lads and lassies. Too, we noticed that each shy maid very carefully selected the proper silver service necessary to use in polite society, as well as all the other niceties to be observed during a dinner hour.

REMEMBER PEARL HARBOR AND THE WHITE CLIFFS OF DOVER CHOSEN AS PROM THEME

That long-looked for and hoped for day, which had been a star on the horizon for four long years had at last arrived, and we had passports to attend a banquet and share the hospitality of our Junior friends.

As we crossed the threshold of the hall we were dazzled and surprised to find that in the twinkling of an eye we had been transported into another clime, where great white cliffs towered high above us, and blue birds seemed to carry messages of peace and good-will.

We were concerned however about the huge cannon that seemed to roar in the distance, for we well knew that we would soon make up another fleet for Uncle Sam.

After greetings were exchanged, pretty frocks admired, and beauty complimented, we were ushered to our tables by sailor boys and enjoyed a banquet fit for kings.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER BANQUET LAST SOCIAL EVENT OF YEAR

An event of formality and beauty was the annual Mother-Daughter banquet sponsored by the Girl Reserves. Such charming daughters you never did see, and lovely hostesses too, for who could believe that they could prepare such a delicious buffet luncheon with their own hands. Tables were artistically decorated with spring blooms, and gorgeous bouquets added color to the scene. A formal dinner program was followed by a most significant ceremony and the officers were installed for the coming year—and new members were pledged. Senior mothers and daughters were presented with flowers.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM FOR THIS YEAR

On Oct. 31, the Montpelier High School was privileged to have Mr. Sperandeo, an armless musician, as its guest. Accompanied by his wife, he sang, in Spanish dialect, the songs of old Spain. Mrs. Sperandeo read the history of the song.

On Nov. 10 Mrs. Hess' personal discussion to the students was an educational one as well as interesting. She told what a student in high school should look for in picking his or her friends. After talking to the group she interviewed the girls and boys in two conference groups.

On Nov. 11 the American Legion held an Armistice Day program in the auditorium for the student body. The colors were advanced by members of the Legion. There was an educational speech called "Armistice Day" followed by entertaining solo. Mr. Carl Hart told of the Armistice in the World War 1, and how the boys survived the outcome of the war.

On Nov. 12 Mr. Benjamin gave a splendid talk on the conservation of the United States and its importance to us. He showed pictures of how to prevent soil erosion and afterwards gave circulars to the prospective hunters of this year which explained the cautions of hunting.

On Nov. 17 a blind musical program was witnessed by the students. This program consisted of a blind xylophone player and a young lady who illustrated her brilliance in reading Braille books.

Dec. 4 students were entertained by the Slout Players a group of roving actors who gave several one act plays. Among the clever presentations they made were a scene from Shakespeare, and a radio serial, "Taming of the Shrew."

On Dec. 12 the Junior Class presented their play entitled "The Squealing Cat" which was very well received by the student body; this also showed many promising talents in the Junior Class.

On Dec. 26 the Hi-Y and Girl Reserve presented a Christmas play, which was very appropriate for that time of year.

On Jan. 14 a lecture on the fundamental principles of aviation was given by a prominent speaker. He also told those who were interested, the requirements for joining the Army Air Corps.

On Jan. 27 the students of Montpelier High School had the pleasure of witnessing a zoology exhibit. The animals that were shown were a sloth, a baby alligator, two monkeys, and several different species of birds.

On Feb. 2 the Community institute began in the Montpelier High School auditorium. Our guest speakers gave very interesting lectures on "Being Prepared."

On March 11 a brilliant performance of the Larchers Duo; they played in many different moods. They began by playing the National Anthem of the United States. Mr. Larcher played the piano accompanied by his wife on the drums. Mr. Larcher drew much applause through his accordion solos.

On March 12 the Montpelier High School was fortunate to have the Albion College Band. This magnificent group of Albion College students made a wonderful showing. Their excellent music was enjoyed by all the students of our school. This group was sponsored by the Montpelier Band.

On March 20 we welcomed to the auditorium Mrs. King Chapman who gave us an eye-witness account of the attack on Pearl Harbor by the Japanese, she told how calm the people of the island were in such a time of strife.

On March 27 Mr. Frye, a magician, entertained the students of M. H. S. with his magic tricks. He chose a few students from the group to help him carry on his acts.

The Portraits of the Past

Compiled by Dorothy Tingle and Evelyn Shankster

The graduates from the year 1884 to the present are remembered by their friends and for their accomplishments. They are working for the betterment of mankind and are making the sacrifices necessary for the liberty we are determined to retain. Their work is in different fields, their success is of various degrees, but their aim is common—the preservation of the democratic way of life.
